Citizenship

Citizenship is being a good member of your community following rules and helping others. There are many ways to show citizenship. Chris was a busy kid. He had school every day and sports after school. On weekends, he got to play and have fun, but once a month, his family liked to volunteer. They picked up trash outside, or they helped an elderly neighbour fix up their house. It was hard work, but Chris felt good about making his community a better place. Shelly was a girl scout. She liked getting her badges. She had a whole bunch of them sewed on her sash. Her favourite badges to get were ones that required helping people. She put a smile on someone else's face and people could always use help. Shelly was a good citizen.

Test 15

Read the following passage and answer the questions given below.

(8 marks)

It was a little after sunset that I cycled home after playing football for an hour with my friends. To my utter astonishment, I saw a commotion of people standing outside our next-door neighbour's home. As I drew near, I saw that part of the house was engulfed in flames with black smoke forming huge clouds above. Jumping off my bicycle, I dashed into the crowd where I spotted my father and my elder brother, Ashen standing with our neighbour, Mr Ruwan Dodangoda.

Mr Dodangoda looked as though he might collapse any moment. His wife who had been holding onto her adolescent daughter suddenly screamed. Standing on a small balcony outside his burning room was her 4-year-old son, Shiron. He was crying hysterically, undoubtedly not hearing his mother's consoling words that she was coming to get him. Mrs. Dodangoda then rushed towards the flaming main door but had to be stopped by her husband. He knew that it would've been futile to let her go through the fire. She would never have made it across a room without being burnt alive.

Meanwhile, Ashen had found a wooden step ladder that was just tall enough to reach the balcony. With the help of my father who steadied the ladder, he slowly climbed up. When he reached the top of the ladder, Ashen helped Shiron onto his back. People on the ground held their breaths while Ashen carefully descended with a petrified Shiron clinging to him. A few moments later, both of them were safely on the ground. A cheer erupted which drew Mrs. Dodangoda's attention to her son who had just been saved from the fire in the nick of time. By that time, the balcony had also been swallowed by the flames.

The air was soon punctured by the wailing siren of a fire engine and soon the hungry flames were doused by strong power hoses. However, there was no doubt that the boy had been saved by my brother's quick action even in the face of danger. Amidst, Mrs. Dodangoda's tearful gratitude and my father's hearty pat on Ashen's back, I looked on with pride at my brother, knowing that he had just saved a precious life.

1. Say whether the following statements are true or false. Put a tick (✓) in the relevant column.
