Test 10

John and Robert were students of the same class. They usually traveled to school by bus. Last Friday, they had to walk to school since the scheduled bus did not reach on time. While they were on their way to school, a passing car stopped and offered them a lift. The boys accepted the offer joyfully. There were three men in the car. One was driving and other two were in the rear seat. John and Robert sat between the two men. When the car approached the school, John requested the driver to stop the car. But he didn't stop. The two men in the rear seat told them angrily not to shout. The boys were really frightened.
